USE OF LIME RISES IN VIRGINIA

The tide apparently has turned in the use of lime on Virginia farm lands.

VPI agronomists say the amount of agricultural liming materials used in Virginia rose last year for the first time in six years.

In 1958, 472,634 tons were used, as compared to 460,028 tons in 1957. The decrease was been sharp since 1952, when 904,777 tons were used.

The agronomists say that Virginia soils need about 1,000,000 tons per year.

A soil test will help determine the lime needs.

Soil testingis done at the VPI laboratories, and county agents can give details on taking and mailing samples.

FERTILIZER PLACEMENT IMPORTANT IN TOBACCO

Newly set tobacco plants may be injured if the fertilizer isn't placed properly, warn tobacco specialists at VPI.

Many burley tobacco growers who use high rates of fertilizer on good soil broadcast all the fertilizer, On less productive soil, at least 300 to 400 pounds per acre should be placed in the row.

On flue-cured tobacco, band placement should be used if equipment is available. If equipment is not available, use deep placement. If you use over 1,300 pounds of 3-9-9, or over 1,000 of 4-8-10, apply the excess as a side application.

On most Virginia farms, these rates will be enough. Under some conditions, lower rates should be used.

On fire-cured and sun-cured tobacco, if band equipment is available, place fertilizer in two bands seven inches apart and deep enough so roots of newly set plants will be one to two inches above the fertilizer.

When band equipment is not available, use a large shovel to open a deep furrow so roots of newly set plants will be above the fertilizer, and distributes no more than the equivalent of 1,000 pounds of 8-10 fertilizer per acre in the row. If more than 1,000 pounds are used, broadcast the excess and plow or disk it under.

Despite the outcry against taxes, the average citizen gets as much for his tax dollar, or more, than he does for most of the others he spends.

It's not the cost of collecting that worries the business, so much as the cost of not collecting.

The man who grumbles about a dollar in direct taxes pays $25 in indirect taxes without realizing that he is doing it.

If you have a problem that is worrying you a lot, the best thing to do is to turn it over to time—which seems to take care of everything.

Friday will be "C-Day" in Appomattox. Beginning at 6:30 P. M., more than 40 volunteers of the American Cancer Society will knock on every door in its annual Cancer Control Day drive.

The committee says: "Our C-day Crusaders will ask you to give all you can to help fight cancer, and they will also give you the facts of America's number two disease killer. The facts may one day save your life or the life of someone dear to you. One of the facts is that a periodic health check-up is your best safeguard against cancer, because only in that way can the disease be detected early enough to give you a fifty-fifty chance.
